ABOUT HELEN

Helen Milner is CEO of the Tinder Foundation, the UK's largest digital inclusion organisation. Helen started her career 30 years ago, developing online education services for schools. Since then she has specialised in education for all, in the UK and other countries. She's passionate about helping people to optimise the opportunities the web has to offer. This passion for technology and learning, led Helen to start the Tinder Foundation in 2011. Since then, the social enterprise has helped over 1.8 million people.
